To Our Friends and Customers

IT IS with pleasure that we present to you this modest little catalogue containing a great many of the newer productions of Gladioli of which a large number are the Kunderd originations.

You will note that our prices have been greatly reduced over last year but the bulb quality remains the same high standard as of previous years, large, plump, healthy, full o' pep, sure to give perfect satisfaction.

In comparing our prices with the back yard, inexperienced grower and the cut rate jobber who buys his stock with nothing but price considered you must take into consideration the quality which we guarantee and also the liberal count you get when purchasing stock from us.

All the varieties listed in this catalogue are grown in our own fields under our own personal supervision, planting, cultivation, digging, curing, storage, cleaning, packing and shipping. There is nothing left undone that would aid in producing perfect quality bulbs.

JOHN H. McKIBBIN.

The Gladiolus

This brief article is written for two classes of flower lovers—those who have and those who have not grown the Gladiolus.

Certainly those who have never grown this beautiful flower have a surprise in store for them if they become acquainted with it. And those who have grown it perhaps for years, perpetuating the original stock of long ago, can have but a faint idea of the advance that has been made in recent years.

Care, patience and skill devoted to the improvement of this flower have been fruitful of result, and the good work is being steadily carried onward. Specialists in floriculture are earnestly at work in this line. New varieties are being created, poorer ones eliminated, and the means known to the profession are used to gain the end in view so that we confidently predict a future for the Gladiolus far in advance of its past, or even its present, although the Gladiolus of today is greatly superior to that of past years.

The Gladiolus is not only one of the grandest of outdoor flowers in cultivation but it possesses qualities that render it almost unrivalled as a cut flower for the home or for the florists, for feast or funeral for the bride or the boudoir, the club or the drawing room, it is equally adapted.

Its gorgeous colorings, its graceful form, its wide variety of tints, its size and strength and added to all these its remarkable lasting qualities make it pre-eminently desirable as a cut flower. In the garden its long season of bloom, together with its great variety of color, form and types makes it one of the most striking and noble of all garden subjects, and in the hands of the floral artist it lends itself to all manner and kinds of floral arrangement. It is suitable for a wide range of floral uses and as a decorative subject has few if any equals.

The Gladiolus, The King of Flowers

Do you grow Gladiolus in your garden? Can you grow the sturdy, beautiful spikes such as you see in your Florist's windows? Do you know what it means to you to save and grow your cormels? Did you ever realize the vast amount of pleasure there is in growing this flower from seed? If you have not realized all these pleasures, is it because of lack of knowledge? There is no secret to them. If you belong to the American Gladiolus Society you will receive its official Magazine which explains all these things and teaches you how to grow them as good as the professional. The Magazine will also teach you the best varieties and the proper colors to grow for different effects and purposes.

Why have nearly three thousand amateurs joined the Society in the past five years? It is "in search of knowledge" and the best place to find it is in the columns of the A. G. S. Official Bulletin which is sent free to members.

The Garden Magazine & Home Builder is published in a 20-acre garden,—a vast experimental station. Here every new plant, new spray and insecticide and new cultural method is tested. The results come to you each month in this reliable, fully illustrated periodical. It helps with every phase of garden work in every kind of a garden.

Beginning with its September issue, this magazine was enlarged, its policy broadened, its name changed to Garden Magazine & Home Builder,—to help with the house as well as with the garden. With more garden material than ever, this is the best garden and home magazine published.

Gladioli in Mixture

To secure the greatest variety and beauty from Gladioli it is absolutely necessary to grow them in mixture also. To make this statement a reality we have made up a collection from thousands of the best named and unnamed kinds containing all the tints, colors, shapes and sizes both in the plain and ruffled petal varieties.

This ideal mixture will afford pleasure all the season through and will continually present new beauty, pleasures, surprises and beautiful flowers in endless variety. To secure the best value and variety it is necessary to obtain a considerable number of bulbs, and therefore we have decided to offer our customers and friends an opportunity to purchase a large and beautiful collection at a price within the reach of all.

DOROTHY McKIBBIN

BROADCASTER

(Formerly No. 108.)

This specimen was originated by Mr. A. E. Kunderd. We purchased the entire stock of this variety of Mr. Kunderd in 1920, and introduced it in 1924 under No. 108. For description see page 3.

"BROADCASTER"

Broadcaster (formerly No. 108) was introduced last year under number and I offered a prize of six bulbs of this variety to the persons (purchasing one or more bulbs of this variety) sending in the most appropriate name for it.

From the long list of names we received, we have decided to name it Broadcaster, Mr. J. B. Gottschall of Van Wert, Ohio, sending in this name.

Mr. Gottschall gives his reasons for naming No. 108 Broadcaster in the following letter, viz:

Van Wert, Ohio, July 29, 1924.

Mr. J. H. McKibbin,
Goshen, Indiana.

Dear Sir:

Early this spring I purchased one bulb No. 108. I planted it with care April 10th, on July 16th it bloomed, eight open 16 buds in all, 96 days, weather cold, cloudy, rainy during April, May and June. Now the best of all next to its wonderous beauty was the fact that it sent up four good, big, healthy spikes, not one of which was deficient. The four spikes all bloomed within ten days of the time the first flower opened on the first spike.

I think, therefore you can do 108 justice by naming it Broadcaster for the following reasons:

1st. On four spikes it sends its beauty and worth to the four corners of the earth to give pleasure and entertainment to the thousands who will tune in.

2nd. Broadcaster, because of its height about foliage.

3. Broadcaster, because of the number open at one time for all who will tune in.

4th. Broadcaster, because it is bound to become more and more popular.

5th. Broadcaster, because of its hardiness, it needs no relay.

6th. Broadcaster, because it is as far in advance of other whites, all points considered, as the broadcasting stations of today are in advance of the old lumbering stage coaches carrying mail to the people.

Many thanks,

J. B. GOTTSCHALL

CARE AND CULTURE OF THE GLADIOLUS

The Gladiolus possesses great vigor and tenacity of life, growing and blooming even under adverse and unfavorable circumstances. The hardiness of the bulb is remarkable.

This does not make it any less true that it is wise to give it the best of care, and it will well repay such care.

Preparing the Soil.

The soil should be made fine and mellow to a considerable depth, plowing or spading 10 to 12 inches deep.

Fertility of Soil.

If not already in a good state of fertility the soil should be made so by a liberal dressing of manure. For best results this should be applied in the fall previous to the planting in the spring. In applying manure in the spring it should be done as early as possible before planting time. Some good commercial fertilizer such as bone meal or prepared sheep manure worked into the soil before planting is a great advantage to the plants.

While the Gladiolus will grow in almost any fertile soil, it succeeds best in a sandy or gravelly loam, with good drainage, and will also thrive in a clay loam if the subsoil be not too compact.

If the season be dry it is well to water thoroughly occasionally, up to the period of bloom, avoiding the trampling or stirring of the ground while wet.

Planting.

If the flowers are desired mainly for cutting for bouquets or decorative work they may be planted in rows eighteen or twenty inches apart, or wider if desired and placing the bulbs four to six inches apart in the row. A convenient way to do this is to make a furrow with a small hand plow and place the bulbs in the bottom not less than four inches deep, covering with the mellow soil. This affords the most convenience in after care and cultivation.

Planting should be done as early as the ground can be brought into good condition in the spring. A safe rule is to plant when ordinary farm crops, such as corn and oats are being planted.

Cultivation.

Treatment after planting is simple, but neglect is no part of it. Weeds are to be absolutely kept down and the soil finely cultivated and stirred once a week, keeping the surface level until bloom appears after which it is well to throw a little soil to the rows, hilling up

BUTTERFLY

One of Mr. A. E. Kunderd's new Primulinus Hybrids. Introduced in 1915. Has a most beautiful large wide open flower of a salmon-yellow flushed with pink. Grand.

a little as this enables the plant to stand up during storms.

Cutting the Blooms.

The spikes should be cut near the base, leaving from three to five leaves on the plant, as soon as the lower or first flower expands. Cut thus in the bud they may be shipped great distances and in a vase of water will continue to bloom for ten days. With most varieties the delicacy of color is enhanced by blooming thus. The purest white, for instance, is only attained by this method and other colors are finer.

Digging and Storing.

Bulbs should be dug before the plants are too ripe in the fall before the hard frosts. Dig the bulbs and cut off the tops closely against the bulbs. Dry well in the air and sunshine, cure thoroughly indoors for a few weeks, then store in a cool dry place. It is best not to place bulbs more than four inches deep while in storage. Florists' flats are very suitable for this purpose. Extremes of dampness and dryness are alike to be avoided. If they sprout they are too warm, if they shrivel they are too dry, while freezing destroys them at once.
